

Oregon Pollution & Run-Off

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Fri, Dec 20, 2013 at 12:46 AM

To: "joelle.gore@noaa.gov" <joelle.gore@noaa.gov>

Joelle Gore,

I learned of the EPA & NOAA's action today in the Oregonian, and I can't describe how pleased I am that federal regulators are recognizing the harms done to our water system and land stability from logging. Oregon needs to prioritize clean water in even the smallest of streams (all of which feed into fish-bearing waters, of course, and are therefore vital to our ecosystems' health) and to guard against human-made landslide dangers.

I am grateful that pressure is being placed on Oregon to uphold its responsibilities to the environment -- for both wildlife's sake and for humans' sake.

Sincerely,
[REDACTED]